

Eumelia – A unique regenerative agritourism & ecotourism farmstay accommodation

Location: Rural Laconia, Southern Greece, near Gouves, surrounded by Taygetos & Parnonas mountains.

Concept: A regenerative farm, guesthouse, and educational center promoting sustainable living, eco-technology, and holistic well-being.

Farming: Uses organic, biodynamic, and permaculture methods; produces its own organic olive oil and natural wines (Kydonitsa, Athiri, etc.).

Accommodation: Eco-houses built with natural materials, using geothermal heating/cooling, with kitchens, WiFi, and bioclimatic design.

Food: "Zero kilometer" organic vegetarian cuisine at the BioCafe/Restaurant, using farm-grown ingredients.

Experiences: Olive oil/wine tastings, farm-to-table cooking classes, yoga retreats, olive/grape picking, and workshops.

Sustainability: Employs advanced recycling (water via root systems), composting, geothermal/solar energy, and natural building materials.

Philosophy: A "dialogue with nature," giving back, empowering local economy, and fostering respect for the environment and humans.
